

Scoring notes – 10-24-19

Stunts –

1. Partner stunt vs Non Partner Stunt

- There is a grip being used for a 2-man partner stunt where there are two bases under the foot of the stunt. Doing this grip requires a third person to be standing behind the stunt. Therefore, this is not a partner stunt because it requires 4 people to complete this stunt.

This is not a partner stunt as it requires 3 bases to perform: the two bases and the spotter protecting the head and neck.

This is considered a partner stunt as the stunt is legal with just the base and spotter.

2. There are now two categories in the 6-7.9 range for body positions. There is a category for front flexibility and a category for back flexibility.
 - a. Example 1 – If you have a stretch and a scorpion, you have fulfilled 2 of the 6-7.9 range skills.
 - b. Example 2 – If you have a scorpion and a scale, you have only fulfilled 1 of the 6-7.9 range skills.

Tumbling –

1. In order to score in range in the standing tumbling section, you MUST have a jump to tumble combo. The most difficult pass will be your range setting pass. There is a choreographed jump tumble combo in the routine to meet the standing tumbling criteria. If your athlete has a standing tumbling pass and forgoes the jump to tumble combo, they will score a .5 in the standing tumbling section.
